Thank you everyone for coming and supporting me through everything with my mommy.. I love and miss you all so much, she really was my sister and best friend, even though we had our ups and downs I still love her and miss her, so thank you all very very much for being there for me and helping me get through this... Honestly it still hurts but I know I have God by my side and He loves me, and that He took my mommy because she was in pain and needed to go, because how much pain she was in, so thank you God for taking her she needed to be with you up there then drugs and other things were taking her time and you did the right thing, even though I need her and miss her it's the right place for her I know one day I'll see her again.. I hope you all are doing great everyday and getting stronger and stronger every second of your life.
